Home Again With Honors.

The last week brought our school girls back to the Shore again. The largest representation at any one school was that at the Blackfour Female Institute, which is a favorite school with the Eastern Shore people. The students from Accomac and Northampton enrolled at that school the last session, were thirty in number. They were Misses Lula Scott, Capeville; Hyla Hunt, Dalby's; Charlotte Stokely, Cheriton; Henrietta Turner, Bayford; Hattie Scarborough, Maggie Lankford and Alice Moorman, Franktown; Lucy Rogers, Nassawadox; Carrie Elzey, Exmore; Sadie and Bettie Rae and Mary Kellam, Belle Haven; Minnie Wescott, Mappesboro; Marie Byrd, Kellar; Pearl Marsh, Harborton; Clara Hume, Sallie Tarran and Lula Wiekes, Wachapreague; Minnie White and Minnie Ward, Fair Oaks; Cracie Belote, Savageville; Bessie and Elsie Phillips, Onley; Julia, Bessie and Annie Crowder, and Georgie Lewis, Onancock; and Kate Vaden, Bloxom.

Of the five medals given at the Institute two were taken by Eastern Shore girls. Miss Charlotte Stokely received the Faculty medal for general deportment, requiring in addition a high grade of scholarship. Miss Sadie Harmon being a close second for the same prize. Miss Julia Crowder received a medal for instrumental music, and Miss Clara Hume was so near to her in excellence of her work that the Faculty were obliged to give her a special prize. There were fifteen graduates at the Institute, of which number the following were from the Eastern Shore: English graduates Miss Sadie Harmon, Full graduates, Misses Minnie Wescott, Sadie Rae, Hattie Scarborough, Henrietta Turner. This is a fine showing for our girls. May they do equally as well in the great work of life which lies before them.

Accomac Academy Commencement.

Prof. Thos. J. Coles, (of Cornell) principal of this institution, closed his session's work with the most creditable commendation from all whom he has come in touch, there having never been heard a dissenting voice as to his thorough educational methods. Owing to lack of room the exercises were necessarily cut short, but in order to keep Prof. Coles in our midst his patrons are now building him a large building for next session. And as he has already engaged two assistants for next session, he hopes to accommodate the public and not have to turn away the many applications for entrance, as he had to do this session.

At the commencement special mention was made of the fine monthly reports and thorough examination papers of Miss Ethel Moore, Mr. Cusis Fletcher, Mr. Frank Justis and Miss Carrie White. And especially interesting were Mr. Donald Fletcher on "Alma Mater," Mr. Cusis Fletcher on "Thoughts on Examinations" and Miss Moore's declamation "Caius Gracchus to the Caledonians."

Pungoteague Academy Commencement.

The commencement exercises of Pungoteague Academy opened on Sunday, June 5th, with baccalaureate sermon in the Methodist Church, by Rev. J. D. Hank Sr., on the subject, "Influences of christian education." It was an excellent one and received the attention of the large audience present for 14 hours. On Monday the drama "Box of mon keys," rendered in a large tent secured for the purpose, elicited liberal applause, showing the appreciation with which it was received.

On Tuesday night the concert was held and many different pieces of music, both vocal and instrumental were well executed, closing with the Sunflower chorus, showing the splendid musical training of the chorus class.

On Wednesday night the largest crowd ever seen at commencement exercises on the eastern shore filled the spacious tent secured for the occasion, but the capacity of the tent was insufficient. Many had to remain on the outside. The exercises had many attractive features, among them a declamation contest, fine music and the delivery of distinctions, prizes and medals. Prizes for excellence in spelling were presented to Masters Leonard Doughty and Marion Evans and declamation and scholarship medals to Harry Lee Ames, son of Joo. S. Ames, and to Powell Wescott, son of Hon. N. B. Wescott respectively, the medal for declamation being delivered by Hon. N. B. Wescott in a fine speech and for scholarship by Rev. J. D. Hank.

The winner of the scholarship medal, Powell Wescott, made a general average during the session of 99.9 and Rev. Mr. Hank in his presentation speech said he had been connected with educational boards for 17 years, but had never had the pleasure before of meeting a scholar receiving such a high mark in his studies.
